KEY
TO EDITORIAL MARKS, FONT COLORS AND SHADING IN TECHNICAL REPORT AND THE BASIN PLAN AMENDMENT LANGUAGE

The draft Technical Report and draft Basin Plan amendment language (Attachment A to Tentative Resolution No. R9-2005-0239) showed revisions to the Basin Plan in colored font and strikeout and underline text. Subsequent changes to the Basin Plan amendment documents necessitated the use of color and shading to differentiate new changes added to the final documents from the original changes in the draft documents. The key to the editorial marks is given below.

Editorial marks	Explanation
Text	Delete text.
Text	Insert text.
Text	No changes to text.
Text	No changes to Basin Plan text. Shading signifies a change from the draft document to the final documents.
Text	Insert text. Shading signifies an addition of text to the final document not in the draft document.
Text	Text shown in both strikeout and underline means that text inserted in the draft document was deleted in the final document. Shading signifies a change from the draft document to the final document.
Text	Strikeout text and shading signifies a deletion of text from the draft document not appearing in the final document.
